See “The Abstracted Content of Pennsylvania Archives, Series 3” on the next page for some characterization of the data here abstracted: in brief, it comprises colony/state-wide land warrant records; annual township tax records; and Revolutionary War muster rolls.

PAA Series 3 has an every name index, and working from this I’ve compiled 72 one-line abstracts that cover all of the entries for DENNISONs in this index.^[1] Though mine are abstracts of abstracts, I’ve captured most of the data in the PAA abstracts, but it’s important to understand that these published abstracts, particularly those of the tax records, are far from complete. This set of 72 abstracts should not, therefore, be considered fully comprehensive in itself, but by combining these three types of data and sorting them in various ways, I think I’ve provided at least an outline of the PA counties and townships that would benefit from exhaustive research looking for additional DENNISON records. And with the evolution of the PA counties and their boundaries in mind, as shown by this the Pennsylvania Animap, these records are also suggestive of possible family relationships and westward migration routes.

I’ve collapsed the variant spellings of the DENNISON surname together and sorted this batch of 72 one line PA DENNISON abstracts in four ways:

by DENNISON Given Name, Year, and County-Twp

by Year, DENNISON Given Name, and County-Twp

by County-Twp, Year, and DENNISON Given Name

by Record Type \(Military, Tax, Warranty-land\), Year, County-Twp, and DENNISON Given Name

Abstracting Conventions

Abbreviations

a) cres, h) orses, c) attle, s) heep (as suffixes in land and tax records) — N) orth, S) outh, E) ast, W) est (qualifying place names)

also adj=adjacent; Cm=Company; Co=County; est=estate; NP1784=New Purchase of 1784; Pvt=Private; Wd=Ward

Pennsylvania Pounds/Shillings/Pence in tax lists are indicated, and represented by the numbers interleaved with separators, e.g. “/10/11” or just “10/11” means 10 shillings, 11 pence, while £10 (10 pounds) even would be “10/-/-“ or “10//”.

The dates given in the warrant records are the warrant dates. My more complete abstracts of these warrant records of DENNISONs in the Pennsylvania Land Grant Records provides the additional information found in the warrant registers—the date the survey was returned (and often the date of the survey as well), as well as citations (and in many cases links) to the actual survey documents. No county is provided for the warrants in the Last Purchase of 1784 abstracts because these spanned multiple counties. My notes for these abstracts in the linked report discuss this further and localize these records for DENNISONs by general area, county, and/or watercourse.

The Abstracted Content of Pennsylvania Archives, Series 3

In 1852, the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania initiated a long term project of abstracting or transcribing many of the accumulated records of Pennsylvania from the time of its founding as a colony in about 1681. The resulting hundreds of volumes of these records were published in nine series. The 30 volumes of Series 3 constitute a particularly rich resource for genealogical purposes because it was edited by the erudite Pennsylvania antiquarian William Henry Egle. Series 30 consists largely of abstracts of records pertaining to ordinary individual Pennsylvania residents, mostly from the colonial period and focuses on three rather comprehensive original PA sources:

- (1) the land warrant registers kept by the colonial and Commonwealth authorities that record the names and particulars by which individuals initiated the documented process of acquiring title to PA lands. These registers also provide references to records that cover the remaining steps toward full title, surveys and patents;
- (2) the annual tax records compiled at the township level (within county), and which, in theory at least, record the names of all free males (or householders) aged 21 or over, and also (depending on the type of the list) note the amount of taxable land and livestock owned;
- (3) military muster rolls of Pennsylvanians, particularly covering the Revolutionary War period.

None of these sets of abstracts are complete, either in the data they've extracted, or in their comprehensiveness. They fall short in comprehensiveness not due to any inadvertence on the part of principal editor Egle, but rather because many more of the early colonial records have surfaced since these volumes were published over a century ago. However, sadly, there are even now huge gaps in these annual township tax records, because many of them were left to molder in county facilities, where in many cases, short-sighted governmental authorities, careless of local history, have simply discarded them in favor of more recent, mostly inconsequential administrative ephemera.

Thus, for example, the tax records of arguably the most important western county, Allegheny, the locus of Pittsburgh and a key jumping off place for further westward migration, were simply discarded by the authorities at some point. I also learned when I was up there researching for a client that the tax records of adjacent BeaverCo nearly met the same fate. The story is that, ironically, the county authorities were clearing room in some basement for the National Bicentennial celebration and were dumping the county's precious tax records, when someone thought to call a local historian/genealogist, who rescued most of them. As of about 2008 when I visited, these records had only recently been turned over by their aging rescuer to the BeaverCo Historical Society, and her reluctance to part with them was probably due to the fact that the Historical Society had no public funding, was the project of just a few dedicated volunteers, and was in the process of being evicted from an upstairs room in one of the local Carnegie public libraries (more irony) with no new home in sight.

So in sum, despite the uniquely impressive publication that these PAA series represent, and the equally commendable initiative which has motivated the modern Pennsylvania Archives to digitize and place most of their early land records online, Pennsylvania in general does not have a particularly distinguished history of records preservation.
