

The DENNISON households abstracted here are complete for the extant 1790, 1800, 1810 and 1820 USCensuses of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, and Indiana. Omitted are abstracts for New York and the New England States. I would have included the censuses of New Jersey, but all have been lost through 1820.

The New England DENNISONs are clustered principally in coastal Connecticut (especially New London and Saybrook), and in New York in the counties of Orange and Ulster on the eastern border of Pennsylvania. A few of these families may have bled into Pennsylvania or points south, but I expect only a very few. For the most part, those inclined to wester had already staked out territory closer to the frontier by 1820. When the DENNISON DNA Project begins to accumulate DENNISONs from these northeastern areas, this report will be supplemented by an additional batch of abstracts.

Since the USCensuses for the important state of Virginia are lost for 1790 and 1800, I've included a complete set of DENNISON abstracts of the virtually complete 1787 Virginia county tax lists, and of the 1787-1800 Kentucky county tax lists (although that state wasn't created, from Virginia, until 1Jun1792.

Included also are the few DENNISONs of the Carolinas and Georgia from 1790-1820..

The DENNISON Surname

By DENNISON, I mean to refer to this surname generically, in all its recognizable spellings. Specifically included in the variants abstracted are all surnames that match the templates

D[a|e|i]NN[e|i]SON
or D[a|e|i]NN[e|i]STON

plus the variants with the singled Ns. Most of the surnames indexed as "Dan*" are misreadings of DAVISON, DAWSON, or DAMRON.

Abstracts for Other Surnames

A few households headed by other than DENNISONs are included, where possible close relatives or in-laws appear on the same or an adjacent page of a non-alphabetized. Many such households are included in supplementary compilations I have made, and I have no intention of expanding on these few here.

Abstracting Conventions

Complete citation information is provided for each household abstracted, down to the page and line level, and also included are Ancestry.com image# references. My abstract abbreviation conventions are more fully explained in "My USCensus Abstracting Conventions".

The abstracts are listed in chronological order by decade, from the earliest to the most recent censuses, and for each census year are sorted by state, county, town(ship), and then in order of their meta page numbers and line number on the page.

Census sections that have been alphabetized are identified by "alpha FLS" on the county header line.

The 1790 and 1800 USCensuses for Virginia are lost, but the 1787 Virginia personal property tax lists, which are virtually complete for all counties, have been compiled and are widely used as a 1790 USCensus surrogate. All the DENNISON entries for this tax year are included below. Elsewhere, I've compiled the DENNISONs found on tax lists for many other VA counties of the early federal period.

KENTUCKY, 1787-1800

Technically, Kentucky became a separate state on 1Jun1792, but its pre-existing counties and their records are continuous with their former superior jurisdiction: the Colony, and then the Commonwealth, of Virginia.

The 1790 and 1800 USCensuses for Kentucky are lost but the county tax lists for certain years provide proxies.

All of the DENNISONs before 1800 except for Robert of MercerCoKY have been identified as sons of Daniel2 (Daniel1) of AugustaCoVA.

These 1787 entries for FayetteCoVA, later to be FayetteCoKY are taken from The 1787 Census of VA, also abstracted above:

I've abstracted all the DENNISONs in DE, KY, MD, PA, SC, TN, and VA. However, as a point of interest, there were 45 DENNISTON (with a "t") households in the whole census: 22 in NY (especially in OrangeCo); 15 in PA; 7 in VA; and 1 in MN. For what it may be worth, the "Denniston" spelling was overwhelmingly preferred in NY, and the "Deniston" spelling in PA.

8 AdaiKY-----:	17-09	3	0	-	0	2	0

The surnames here are very hard to decipher and were indexed as "Dawson" - the writing being garlanded; however, the clear dots above and to the right of the "i" for John and George, and the faint dot for Joseph are consistent with my reading. Since Adair is adjacent to BarrenCoKY, following, these DENNISONs probably belong to Patrilineage 2 from PittsylvaniaCo. On the other hand, the parameters for Joseph and George, at least, are consistent with those for the sons of Robert2 of WashingtonCo who bear those names. On the other hand this John looks like an older brother of the other, and John3 (Robert2) was on the tax lists of GraingerCoTN in 1819 and in JeffersonCo thereafter.

This is most likely the George Denison who married in CabellCoVA in 1811, and who appears on the tax lists of that county in 1812, 1814, and 1816. CampbellCo is adjacent to LaurenceCoOH across the Ohio River, where Jonathan DENNISON of CabellCo (and before that of Bath and AugustaCoVA) ended up.

VIRGINIA, AUGUSTA County

The census sheets here have been cut in half and as often as not re-assembled incorrectly. Fortunately, there are frequent marginal markings identifying the various areas and the entries have been alphabetized, so that it's possible in most cases to reconstruct the correct order, and to determine thereby which section of AugustaCo each entry falls into.

VIRGINIA, HARRISON County

No DENNISONs in HarrisonCo

Typing "Harrison" or the names of other VA counties that later split off to make WV into the Ancestry index offers as, completion: "Harrison County, West Virginia, USA" and there is no entry for plain Virginia. But you can type in "Harrison County, Virginia, USA" and that will work. Before I discovered this, I also scanned all 30 pages of the county census for 1820 without finding any DENNISONs. Since there were DENNISON in Harrison in 1810, 1830, and later, evidently the USCensus for 1820 is only partial. It consists of several sections, concatenated together, most of them alphabetized on first letter of surname, including the one on which I found households for two of James DENNISON of FauquierCo's putative sons-in-law: Anthony Haley who supposedly married James's daughter Mary, and Bailey Norman who married daughter Nancy in 1800 back in FauquierCo.

5 ScotVA-----:211B-03	0	1	-	1	1	0

The "t" in this surname is one of the clues that this is William2 (Robert2 of WashingtonCoVA, John1 of AugustaCoVA), of DENNISON Patrilineage 1 who is known to have married Rachel Umbarger of ScottCoVA, the daughter of Peter. William's brother Scott married another of Peter's daughters. I've included this William of ScottCo only because he was succeeded in Scott in 1830 by one Peter Deneson who appears to be the ancestor of DENNISON Patrilineage 6 Project member R43. It would nice to know what became of this William, who's no longer in ScottCo in 1830 when Peter first appears there, as it's likely that this William named a son Peter for his father-in-law. That this is not the William DENNISON who was married on 4Oct1804 in PittsylvaniaCo to Jenny Barron (d/o Josiah who gave consent) is shown by the fact that there's also a HH headed by W[illia]m Deneson (aged 26-44) of GraysonCoKY for 1820, who has a wife named Jane and a probable neighbor mother-in-law Elizabeth Barron in the 1850 census for GraysonCo. That GraysonCo William was the ancestor of two members of the DENNISON Patrilineage 2 Project.

OTHER DENNISONs in VA, 1820

There's also a listing for Thomas Denison of CabellCo which I've abstracted elsewhere. Thomas is a son of the John DENNISON who settled in the westrnmost part of AugustaCo in the 1780s, which was later erected into BathCo, and he had brothers named John and Jonathan who also filtered into the western counties of future West Virginia, Kentucky, and the southernmost county of Ohio. A descendant of this DENNISON patrilineage, unrelated to all the others above, is a member of the DENNISON Surname DNA project.
